THE INNBAR OFFERS AN 'INN-SPOT' TO WIND DOWN AFTER WORK OR A GREAT PLACE TO BEGIN A NIGHT ON THE TOWN

CHICAGO, Ill. -- June 26, 2008 – Just inside the Inn of Chicago's chic hotel lobby, those in-the-know gather in the club-like lounge called the InnBar. Each evening, guests and neighborhood residents can find a hip atmosphere and a friendly mixologist concocting specialty libations.

The inviting bar is back-lit with a constantly changing, warm color wash that adds a visual element that enlivens the attitude of the lounge, while a mink brown, lavender grey and Macassar ebony design scheme punctuated with chocolate-colored wool area rugs, faux zebra-skin ottomans and crystal glass-beaded window treatments provide glitter reminiscent of the property's 1920's roots.

"We wanted to give our guests, neighborhood residents, and area employees a welcoming lounge where they could feel at home," said Nichole Benolken, hotel manager for the 357-room boutique property. "The InnBar offers easy-going evenings where guests can make new acquaintances or kick off a great night on the town," she added.

Specializing in top liqueurs, cordials, and signature martinis, some of the special recipes created by the mixologists range from the InnLighten, a flavorful creation that rewards senses with Blueberry vodka, Pama Pomegranate Liqueur, a touch of orange juice and a lemon wedge, to the InnOcence, a creamy delight combining mandarin vodka and Godiva White Chocolate Liqueur with a touch of Frangelico and a cherry.
